

29020 Teaching Management System

The Technology

The teaching management system (TMS) provides a means to represent and manipulate the entire teaching commitment of a department. It allows the central management of workload across staff and is tailored to the commitments of individual members of staff, while also permitting staff to check their individual teaching workloads.

Our web server TMS software has been supporting 200 users for the last 2 years and is estimated to have saved the administration department £20k per year in reduced back office staffing.

Our software:

- Captures the entire teaching workload of a department or school, including research student supervision
- Provides a synoptic view of workload across the academic staff of the unit
- Provides an accurate, rational, equitable and transparent mechanism to allocate teaching workload
- Enables staff to quickly access their teaching commitments via the World-wide Web
- Estimates the forward workload to meet future demands.

The Opportunity

We are seeking a software re-seller or systems integrator to incorporate this staff management software.
